YELLOW JOURNALISM.

Papers Afflicted With It Long Since Ceased to Appeal to Sober Judgment of Common Sense.

When Hearst started with the Journal, purchased for him, so to speak, as a plaything, he spent the family money with great freedom for news, and did get the news. While he bought and manufactured an infinite quantity of news that was not so, he still did contrive to get a good deal of news that was important, and get it ahead of other people. Consequently, many people found it advisable to buy his yellow journal, partly from curiosity, and partly to get such news as he might have in advance of other papers.

In the past year or two, however, and more especially since Hearst and his staff undertook to make a presidential boom for him, the yellow journals, as newspapers, have deteriorated very rapidly, and it is simply truth to say that today Hearst's American is a very poor specimen of the journalistic art. For over a year it has been little more than a daily political circular, devoted to fostering Hearst's boom for president. It has been filled with the doings of Hearst clubs, details of Hearst doings in congress and out of congress, and other "news" of the kind. Such news as it has printed, apart from this, has been, in the main, half "fake," and colored so as, if possible, to help his boom along. Nobody need buy Hearst's papers nowadays for the news. Curiously enough, the same kind of journalistic "dry rot" has affected a good many of the country papers which followed Hearst's style of doing things. Badly printed, badly made up—the broken column rule is one of the distinguished marks of yellow journalism—and governed throughout by a spirit of hysterical insincerity, these papers have long ceased to appeal to the sober judgment of common-sense men. There is really nothing left in them to interest anybody who does not believe in and sympathize with the Hearst boom, and all that it implies.

There is, as we have said, excellent ground for the belief that, with the disappearance of the Hearst boom from the field of politics, there will come a general revulsion against yellow journalism. After all, this yellow journalism is, in the main, a humbug and a deception of the people. Humbug can never be permanent. The people will not always tolerate a fake. The Hearst boom will have served the country well if it shall bring about the gradual disappearance of the worst feature of the yellow journalism, leaving only those better features which existed before Hearst came upon the scene.—Wall Street Journal.

BISBEE DAILY REVIEW

Ord Improvement.

You wouldn't know the Hotel Ord now in Douglas. The hotel has been completely renovated and refurnished, and Landlord Elwood Madden is adding to the popularity of the house daily. Pete Lepach presides at the bar, and all will remember Pete at the L. & O. in Bisbee. 3-9-1m.

Charles Swaine, judge of the United States court for the northern district of Florida, whose impeachment has been recommended by the sub-committee of the judiciary committee of the national house of representatives. The charges against Judge Swaine include oppression, non-residence in his district and high misdemeanors. He admits that he has never been a registered voter and that he has never paid taxes in Florida. In order to avoid prolonging the present session congress has decided to defer the impeachment proceedings until December 18.

NELSON'S VICTORY.

How the Flagship of the Hero of Trafalgar Was Humbled.

All England experienced a shock the other day when Nelson's famous flagship Victory was run down by the old ironclad Neptune in Portsmouth harbor and nearly sent to Davy Jones' locker.

The accident occurred on Oct. 23, two days after the anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar, which was fought

Oct. 21, 1805, and curiously enough the Neptune is of the same name of a wooden vessel of the same name which fought side by side with the Victory in that battle.

The Victory was launched in 1751 and was a ship of 100 guns. She has been rebuilt so many times that now scarcely a piece of wood of her original construction remains in her.

abroad with her mother for many years. Last year it was reported that she was engaged to the crown prince of Germany, and the affair is said to have caused a violent scene between the emperor and his son.

At Cannes, France, in 1892, Miss Deacon's father shot and killed Edward Abelle, a wealthy Frenchman, whom he believed to be the lover of Mrs. Deacon. He served a short term in a French prison and died in 1901 in an insane asylum.
